https://forums.thefashionspot.com/threads/royal-and-historic-jewelry.193437/page-4

In the Book "Jewels of the Tsars" by Prince Michael of Greece, he says and i quote "Tiara of pearls and diamonds made for Empress Alexandra Feodorovna, wife of Nicholas I, by the Swedish jeweler Bolin in 1843. In fact this photograph shows an exact "replica" of this piece made by Soviet Jewelers. The original was sold after the Revolution, when it was bought by the Duke of Marlborough for his wife Gladys, who later sold it in her turn. On this occasion it was bought by Imelda Marcos, in whose collection it remains.

The Duchess of Marolbough photographing herself in a mirror